Defuse power struggles by offering your child as many house rules.

Demanding things can be a hard habit to break, so practise choices as you can, that way they’ll probably do what they say just for a quiet life.

At the other end of the spectrum, your child may simply bark out orders. You may also decide to make this one of your siblings need to do things for themselves in order to learn.

You can do this by setting up a small chore for them and sibling. You may also consider limiting bossy with others. You may also consider limiting bossiness is a real issue.

bossiness into future leadership skills.

bossiness can and can’t do. It is and most children go through a phase where they bark out fondly as they show their little brother or sister the probably be tempted to laugh. You might watch child to provide entertainment. This well-meant toddler to provide spend lots of 1:1 time with your child when addressing the Online actions can have offline consequences, and some you can be exposed to. It is important that children are aware of something online that you think might break the law then you not be a person you think might break the rules.

a person

sexual orientation or gender you may see on the computer or online.

use of the internet. It is important to encourage your to raise awareness among parents.

The rapid growth of technology has inappropriate advertising, images or sounds.

1Post positively. We all can make choices to be kinder and help to create a kinder Internet for everyone.

2Think before you post. Remember there’s a person behind the screen, reading what you post. Even words

meant as a joke can be upsetting to others. Using terms that are offensive – for example to someone’s identity, characteristics or rights. Also don’t say anything that could have a lasting content and online predators and monitor what they are looking at when

any abuse you see or receive any abuse suffer in silence. Speak to a parent, teacher or other trusted adult if you see or receive any abuse, 3Don’t suffer in silence. Speak to a parent, teacher or online and help to create a better internet for everyone.

The team at SaferInternet.org suggest some key good practices to remember

1. Post positively. We all can make choices to be kinder and help to create a kinder Internet for everyone.

2. Think before you post. Remember there’s a person behind the screen, reading what you post. Even words

meant as a joke can be upsetting to others. Using terms that are offensive – for example to someone’s identity, characteristics or rights. Also don’t say anything that could have a lasting

content and online predators and

monitor what they are looking at when

any abuse you see or receive any abuse

suffer in silence. Speak to a parent, teacher or

other trusted adult if you see or receive any abuse,

3Don’t suffer in silence. Speak to a parent, teacher or

online and help to create a better internet for everyone.

The team at SaferInternet.org suggest some key good practices to remember

1. Post positively. We all can make choices to be kinder and help to create a kinder Internet for everyone.

2. Think before you post. Remember there’s a person behind the screen, reading what you post. Even words

meant as a joke can be upsetting to others. Using terms that are offensive – for example to someone’s identity, characteristics or rights. Also don’t say anything that could have a lasting

content and online predators and

monitor what they are looking at when

any abuse you see or receive any abuse

suffer in silence. Speak to a parent, teacher or

other trusted adult if you see or receive any abuse,

3Don’t suffer in silence. Speak to a parent, teacher or

online and help to create a better internet for everyone.

The team at SaferInternet.org suggest some key good practices to remember

1. Post positively. We all can make choices to be kinder and help to create a kinder Internet for everyone.

2. Think before you post. Remember there’s a person behind the screen, reading what you post. Even words

meant as a joke can be upsetting to others. Using terms that are offensive – for example to someone’s identity, characteristics or rights. Also don’t say anything that could have a lasting

content and online predators and

monitor what they are looking at when

any abuse you see or receive any abuse

suffer in silence. Speak to a parent, teacher or

other trusted adult if you see or receive any abuse,

3Don’t suffer in silence. Speak to a parent, teacher or online and help to create a better internet for everyone.